How FareShare Works

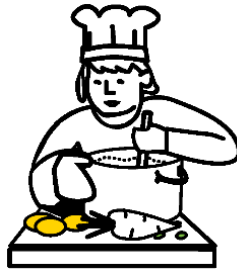

We have 20
Regional Centres

FareShare redistributes surplus food from the food industry...

...with the help of an army of volunteers...

...who turn it into nutritious meals...

...to 5,589 frontline charities and community groups...

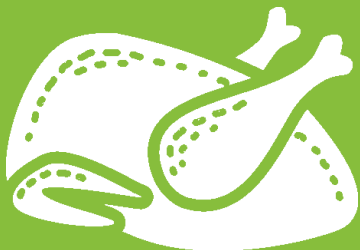

...for just over 414,318 vulnerable people every week...

...last year we provided enough food for nearly 25.8 million meals.

Industry Testimonials

“Yes, supporting FareShare was initially a decision from the heart, it seemed the right thing to do, but we’ve quickly learned that our involvement has helped us to be a better business and it is something that all of those involved are very proud to be a part of.”

Chris Mack

“You might just be surprised how simple it can be to turn your waste into something that delivers so much more for so many people.”

Suzie McIntyre

KETTLEproduce ltd

“FareShare has immaculate codes of practice. I kind of refer to FareShare as a social distributor, a partner, it’s not someone who takes our waste, they are a means by which we fulfil one of our commitments to society”

Our Charity Members

FareShare redistributes food to a wide range of charities and community groups across the UK.

Such as:

- Drop in services
- Lunch clubs for older people
- Breakfast clubs for disadvantaged children
- Homeless hostels
- Domestic violence refuges

By receiving food from FareShare, these organisations are better able to provide nutritious meals alongside life-changing support services.

FareShare's Impact on our Charity Members

52%

of our charity members' food supplies come from FareShare

Charities estimate that if they had to source the food they currently receive from FareShare, this would cost them

per week or £7,900
a year

FareShare contributes over

£21.7m

worth of food to our charity members

Without their current supply of FareShare food, our charity members believe they would struggle

1 in 5

would close down

77%

FareShare food has improved their clients' diets

70%

of charities said they can provide increased quality of food

75%

of FareShare's charity members say the provision of FareShare food has helped their organisation better engage with their clients

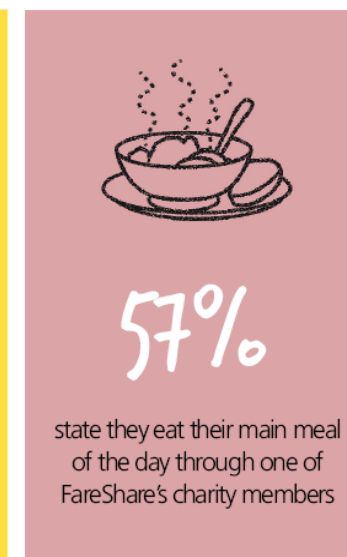

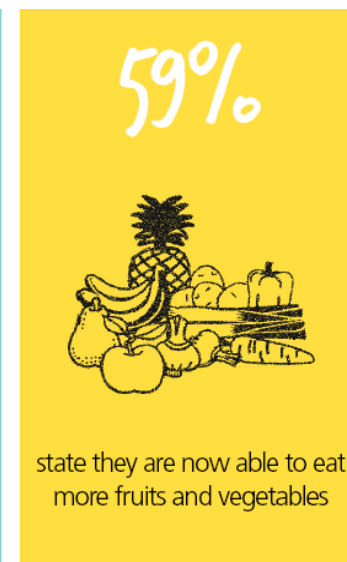

Thanks to a reduced food bill, our charity members can reinvest £3 million into other areas and support services

How This Directly Helps Vulnerable People

We conducted independent research with the vulnerable people who access our charity members' services, to see how receiving FareShare food impacts their lives.

Key findings include:

'More than Meals: Making Difference with FareShare Food',
NatCen Social Research, 2016

“Having a relationship with FareShare has in the first year reduced our food bill by 30%. As a charity, this has enabled us to put more money towards the cost of day trips, entertainment and activities. It is a bit like fundraising in reverse!”

Erica Ross,
Day Centre Manager at Disabled People’s Contact

“One child said to a play worker ‘I come because of the food, because there’s no food at home.’ There are high levels of food poverty on the local estate (Rose Hill). When we didn’t do this, some children were crying as they were so hungry.

The donated food from FareShare is incredible - we couldn’t afford to buy it and feed that number of children otherwise. I think we must be saving about £9,000 a year on food.”

Fran Gardner, Community Worker at Rose Hill Junior Youth Club

FareShare FoodCloud

We have extended our work to include surplus food at store level.

We are rolling out FareShare FoodCloud, linking charities and community groups with their local retailers.

We work on this project with Tesco, Waitrose, Aldi and Asda so far....but watch this space!

How does FareShare FoodCloud work?

We believe no good food should go to waste
Come and help us save food and change lives

YOU
